PREFACE TO THE FIRST EDITION

The present work is designed to form a companion volume to the well-known and much appreciated English-Kanarese School-Dictionary, compiled by the Rev. F. Ziegler. The publication of a Kannada-English School-Dictionary has for a long time been a deep-felt desideratum, as the two smaller editions hitherto extant have but insufficiently served their purpose. The stupendous work of the Rev. Dr. Kittel, the eminent lexicographer of the Kannada language, whose unremitting labours have set a permanent literary monument to the language, standing out in bold features of historical, etymological, and philological, critical researches for guidance and instruction to litterateurs striving after Kannada embellishment and scholarship, held out promising inducements and marked facilities to undertake this work which is chiefly based upon it.

J. Bucher.

Mangalore, Jan. 1899.

PREFACE TO THE SECOND EDITION

In offering the second edition of what has been already known as Bucher's Kannada-English School-Dictionary to the public we have to remark that this edition has undergone a thorough revision so much so that it almost looks like a new work altogether. The important changes made in the present edition are:—

1. Compound words which were grouped under a principal word are separated in this edition and treated alphabetically as new and separate words. It is believed that this arrangement will now facilitate reference, to a greater extent.

2. As this dictionary is mainly intended to be a work o[f] reference for popular and colloquial words and expressions, no pai[ns]

CC-0. In Public

Digitized by Arya Samaj Foundation Chennai and eGangotri

3. No doubt some unimportant words and some compound words, whose meaning can be very easily made out from the meaning of the component parts, are now left out to keep the size of the work within proper limits; but on the whole, words and expressions that are newly introduced into this edition number nearly three thousand, deducting those that are left out.

4. Words and expressions which are in use in particular localities are given with the abbreviations of the names of the localities in which they occur.

This second edition of Kannada-English School-Dictionary is thoroughly revised and enlarged by the late Prof. Christanuja Watsa, the compiler of English-Kanarese Crown Dictionary and the revisor of Ziegler's English-Kanarese School Dictionary. Prof. Watsa's experience in lexicography is a sure guarantee as to the usefulness of this work. The publishers avail themselves of this opportunity to place on record their sense of the serious loss sustained by the death of this erudite scholar. In this work he was assisted by Mr. M. Gopal Rao, Kanarese Pandit and the experienced corrector of the Press. When the greater part of the book had been printed off Mr. Watsa fell ill and Mr. Chr. Maben, his colleague, had at first to help him in correcting the proofs and then to get the last pages passed through the press. In this connection they also acknowledge with thanks the help which Mr. Watsa received from the independent revision of the second edition supplied by the late Mr. A. Beierbach, the former Manager of the Press.

Though this work is mainly based on the scholarly and scientific work of the Rev. Dr. Kittel, several other Dictionaries such as Reeve's Kanarese-English Dictionary, Apte's Sanskrit-English Dictionary, Molesworth's Maharati-English Dictionary, Craven's Hindustani-English Dictionary and others were also laid under contribution.

Hints and suggestions for improvement and enhanced efficiency will be most readily and thankfully received.

The Publishers.
